

HATS OFF TO THE KAIBAB LEARNING CENTER & THE CHEVERON STATION For there recycling endeavors

1. Can you briefly (in a nut shell) describe how this wonderful idea got started; of putting a recycling bin at the gas station and what items you will be recycling?

A parent actually suggested the idea and the Learning Center looked at what the museum in Hurricane was doing and saw that it is a good resource to generate funds as well as support the environment. It was a realistic way for Tribal members to have some ownership in the Kaibab Early Learning Center. The Tribal Store was approached to partner with us in this effort and they ran with it full speed ahead.

We are recycling Aluminum cans, paper and plastic.

2. How will the funds generated from recycling help the learning center?

The monies generated will go for the operational cost of the Center as it is self funding and has an uncertain future. The Tribe offers limited support and it is not a part of the Tribal Education Department and must depend on donations, fundraising and governmental exchanges of property as their funding sources.

3. If someone wanted to donate recycling items where should they bring them?

Recycling items can be dropped off at the Chevron Station in the blue recycle containers on the fence or at the Learning Center for bulk bags of recyclables

4. What other items does the learning center need that a person could donate?

Any and all school supplies are very much appreciated and can be drop off at the Learning Center Monday thru Friday 8am to 5pm.

Our Tribal Environmental Program will help by funneling our collected aluminum cans, paper & plastic to meet the Learning Center's handling capabilities. Our program will continue to recycle all of the usual things, such as electronic and food waste but we encourage everyone to support the Early Learning Center through donations of funds or recyclables. We wish to thank the Tribal Chevron Station for donating the very expensive recycling containers to make this happen. Watching tourists support the progress of our children at the Learning Center by recycling at the Chevron Station makes our day!!
